

Colt Binding Corporate Rules (BCR)

From August 2021 Colt is the first and only Telco company having approved BCRs (post GDPR) placing the whole of Colt Group at the forefront of Privacy compliance worldwide.

What are the BCR?

- The Binding Corporate Rules (BCR) are a certification granted by the the European Data Protection Board (EDPB), the collective body of all EU Data Protection Authorities. The EDPB approved the GDPR compliance programme implemented by Colt across the whole group.

- The BCR are a tool for safely transfer personal data outside the EU within the group - the approved privacy programme being legally binding on every company of the group.

*BCR are the only available instrument to get your data privacy practices approved by the EU Data Protection Authorities.

At the moment, Colt is the only Telco in the market that can claim that and it is a competitive advantage before our competitors. The BCR are considered the top privacy compliance standard. With them, Colt can offer the best data protection assurance in the world.

BCR as tool for International Data Transfers & Privacy Compliance

Transfer of Personal Data outside the EU is a big issue for global companies:

- The rules get stricter every year, and companies have to jump through new hoops every time, with no clear legal certainty. The BCR are the present and future-proof our cross-border data transfers – to India, China, any new location where we do business.
- Colt privacy compliance framework applicable in all Colt's entities has been audited, validated and approved by the European Data Protection Board through the BCR certification.

Colt BCRs covers both our activities as ...

Data Controller

Data Processor

Only 15 companies have BCR in GDPR history and only 9 of them BCRs for both Controller and Processor.

'BCR ARE GOING TO UNITE COLT LIKE NEVER BEFORE. IT WILL ALLOW US TO SELL OUR SERVICES AS IF WE WERE A SINGLE COMPANY'.
